Will Not Be So Cold Tonight and Thursday.

Forecast till 8 p.m. Thursday-For the District of Columbia, Delaware and Maryland, fair and not so cold tonight and Thursday; fresh southwest to south winds; minimum temperature tonight about twenty-four degrees.
For Virginia, fair and warmer tonight.

Thursday increasing cloudiness and warmer; variable winds, becoming northeast-Minimum temperature past twenty-four hours, 11; a year ago, 19. Weather conditions and general forecast— The weather has been fair in all parts of the country, except Texas and the Pacific coast states, where rain has fallen. The temperature continues to rise in the interior valleys and the southwest; it is still unseasonably cold, however, in the Atlantic coast districts. The great V-shaped depression that stretches from the upper Mississippi valley to northwest Texas will advance to the east and southeast during the next thirty-six hours, and probably give rain in the east gulf and south Atlantic states and the Ohio valley.

The temperature will rise in all parts of the Washington forecast district. The winds along the middle Atlantic coast will be light westerly; on the south Atlan-tic coast fresh northeasterly, and on the east gulf coast fresh northeast to east. The following heavy precipitation inches) has been reported during the past twenty-four hours: St. Johns, 1.00. Steamers departing today for European ports will have fresh westerly winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

Brutal Methods and Censorship Denounced.

STAR'S ATTITUDE APPROVED

A General Demand for an Investigation by the President Into the Circumstances.

Imperialism at the White House.

rom the Boston Traveler. It would be unfair, of course, to hold the President directly responsible for the brutal fashion in which Mrs. Minor Morris was handled by the White House servants and police. But it is impossible not to wonder whether the increased pomp and circumstance which have marked President Roosevelt's sojourn in the White House may not be indirectly responsible for it. Under the regime of republican simplicity which used to prevail in the Executive Mansion some other way would have been found of inducing even an insistent woman to retire than the ignoble one resorted to. The guards in the palace of the czar could haruly have been more severe.

A Well-Informed Newspaper.

From the Jacksonville Times-Union But if it had been thought necessary to bring the matter to the attention of the President why could it not have been done n writing, or why could not Dr. Morris himself have made the effort to see the President? The business concerned Dr. Morris, and he, and not his wife, should have attended to it. The woman had no more right than the man to make demands. She had no more right than he to be deflant, and if she did that for which he would have been put out of the office she should have been put out, too. Beyond the mere necessary force of removing her no vio-lence was used. She was not hurt in any way. If she wished to make a scene and be widely advertised she succeeded, and the incident was disgraceful only to herself and the the man who in a sense is responsible for her conduct.

Universally Condemnatory.

Washington Correspondence Houston Post. Almost the sole topic of conversation in Washington today has been the ejection of Mrs. Minor Morris, a sister of Representative Hull of Iowa, from the White House offices yesterday. The sentiments expressed are almost universally critical and condemnatory, not only of those responsi-ble for the manner in which Mrs. Morris was handled, but of her brother, who not only failed to come to the woman's assistance, but permitted himself to be interviewed in the morning papers in a way that materially reflected on her. He took the precaution of being absent from the ity all day today.

Tonight there is considerable talk of an investigation based on the apparent ten-dency to employ at the White House methods common to royal courts. Many of the assertions made by Assistant Secretary Barnes in the official statement issued to-day are flatly contradicted, not only by Mrs. Morris, but by eye witnesses of the whole affair. Mr. Barnes is quite popular and his connection with the incident is generally deplored.

Mr. Sheppard and the President.

Mr. Sheppard's attempt to make it appear that the present occupant of the presi-dency bears toward woman any feelings save those of the highest respect and honor is unlikely to make a deep impression in any quarter.

That the occurrence which Mr. Sheppard used as an excuse for this slap at the President was most regrettable and practically inexcusable does not justify the attempt to make Mr. Roosevelt seem responsible for it. The offense was not committed in his presence, or by his order, or with his consent or approval. An employe lack-ing tact and self-control, perhaps afflicted with the big head, subordinates obliged to obey his orders, a too persistent applicant for a hearing-it is not necessary to drag the President's name in to explain the re-sult of such a combination. It would be as foolish to do so as it would be to hold the entire House of Representatives responsible for the insulting manner in which Rep resentative Beeman G. Dawes, one of Mr. Sheppard's colleagues in the national legis lature, was treated when he attempted to enter the chamber Monday afternoon.

Yet there is no denying that governmenbouncership proved a failure at the White House last week.

The Morris Incident.

From the New York Times. It is not trivial or insignificant that, in the most favorable view of the case, there should not be enough tact and circumspection in the President's household to get rid of an importunate, even a hysterical visitor, except by the crude and primitive method of knocking down and dragging out. A New York patrolman who exhibited no more sense of the exigencies of the situation than that would deserve, we do not say to be dismissed from the force, but to be relegated to a wharf where he would have to deal with no more sensitive civil lans than infuriated truckmen.

Even this is not the worst of it. The version of this very unpleasant incident given by the inculpated and therefore interested member of the President's household differs irreconcilably from that given by the disinterested bystanders who represented the local press. Yet it seems that the President, without investigation, so thoroughly adopted the report of his inculpated subordinate as to give it out that no investigation was necessary. It further appears, upon the testimony of a responsible and espectable newspaper in Washington. that the President's private secretary has undertaken to brandish the executive ter rors before that newspaper for having published a report "objectionable to the White and thus far his act remains unrebuked and undisavowed. These facts greatly aggravate the inherent painfulness of the painful incident in question.

The President Surprised.

Washington Correspondence New York Herald. President Roosevelt's friends have had their eyes opened by the case of Mrs. Morris, sister of Representative Hull of lowa, who was ejected from the White House last week, to a serious state of affairs affecting the operations of the ad-ministration, of which the President has een in ignorance, but which is believed to be due to certain members of the cabi-

When Mrs. Morris was dragged through the White House grounds every newspaper in the country printed an account of the event. Many papers regarded as the closest friends of the administration went further than others of independent leanings in depicting the cruelty of the arrest, and in reflecting on the White House employes and on the President. Unfriendly papers vied with one another in treating the case in its most sensational aspects so as to reflect on Mr. Roosevelt.

At the same time from senators and representatives who had been supposed to be on the most friendly terms with the President were heard expressions of severe criticism of Mr. Roosevelt, his cabinet and his secretaries, and, indeed, of all those closely associated with the President. Not until then did the information reach the White House that there was a sentino intention to ignore the members of Congress or control the work of newspaper men, but their statements falled to impress Mr. Roosevelt's critics.

It was explained to the President's inquiring friends that it was felt Mr. Roosevelt, while professing to remove the "muzzle" which he had placed on the press and members of the cabinet in September, had really kept it on, and that there was a concealment of news in the various depart.

DEATH OF DR. ELLIOT

Rector Emeritus of Church of the Ascension.

THIRTY SERVED YEARS

Remains to Lie in State Tomorrow Afternoon.

INTERMENT AT BEAUFORT, S. C.

Vestry of Pro-Cathedral Church Adopts Resolutions Expressive of Deep Sorrow.

Arrangements were completed today for the funeral services of Rev. John Habersnam Elliott, rector emeritus of the Church of the Ascension, whose death was announced in The Star yesterday. Dr. Elliott had been the rector of that church for thirty years. His death occurred at the rectory, 12th and O streets northwest, at ten minutes past 1 o'clock, after an illness from paralysis of more than three years. The simple but impressive funeral services of the Episcopal Church will be held over the remains at the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Ascension at 1 o'clock Fri-

Rev. John Habersham Elliott. by Rev. Clement Brown, rector of the Pro-

Cathedral. At the conclusion of the obsequies the remains will be sent to Beaufort, S. C., for burial.

The honorary pallbearers will be the members of the standing committee of the Washington diocese, the wardens of the Pro-Cathedral and two members of the Sons of the Revolution, of which organization Dr. Elliott was chaplain for a num ber of years. The active pallbearers will be the vestrymen of the church-Stephen Cramer, Admiral John McGowan, Dr. W. C. Rives, Darius E. Burton, Dr. D. Percy Hickling and S. W. E. Pegues. Dr. Elliott's remains will lie in state in the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Ascension, 12th street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, from 3 to 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and Friday forenoon from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Vestry Takes Action.

At a meeting of the vestry of the church held last night suitable action was taken on the death of Dr. Elliott. Resolutions were adopted reciting that the rector, wardens and vestry of the Ascension parish fully appreciate the loss of the inestimable services of one who for over twentyfive years was ever faithful and zealous to advance the spiritual and material welfare of our parish life.

It was resolved that it is the sense of our rector, wardens and vestry that in the calling of the rector emeritus from his earthly cares to his heavenly reward this parish has lost one whose whole aim and effort in life was to ever minister to the needs of his people, one whose hearty co-operation with them toward the attainment of higher and fuller spiritual life has been of benefit to us all; and one who, in his long period of service, was in every sense earnest in the beginning, faithful in con-tinuing and steadfast to the end. "That we extend our deep and tenderest sympathy to our friend, his sister, and also to the other members of the family of our departed brother and spiritual father, in their great affliction, and commend them to the care of our kind and loving Father, who does not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men. "That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our vestry, and that a copy of the same be sent to the bereaved family of our beloved rector emeritus." The resolutions were signed by Rev. Clement Brown, rector; Charles M. Koones and Prof. B. R. Mason, wardens; W. W. Burdette, S. W. E. Pegues, S. E. Kramer, A. M. Poynton, Darius E. Burton, Dr. W. C. Rives, Dr. D. Percy Hickling, Admiral John McGowan, vestrymen. Attest, A. M. Poynton, registrar. His brother, former Representative William El-liott of South Carolina, and other relatives and friends surrounded the dying man. He managed to make those about him understand that he wanted to go to his God and that he donated his books to the church he loved so well. Then "he calmly entered into eternal rest like one going peacefully

Dr. Elliott was recognized as a foremost canonist of the Episcopal Church, and his charity was unbounded. He was born in Beaufort, S. C., on the 31st of July, 1832. His father, Stephen Elliott, was a prominent Episcopal minister, who, although a man of vast fortune, devoted the greater part of his life teaching the religion to the negro slaves of Beaufort At nineteen Dr. Elliott was graduated with highest honors from the South Carolina College. In 1853 he entered the University of Virginia, where he studied law, and was graduated three years later, and the following year was admitted to the bar of South Carolina, although he never practiced. Changed From Law to Theology. It was Dr. Elliott's first inclination t enter upon the practice of law, but during the last year of his law study he decided upon his future career, that of a minister of the Gospel, and in 1856 he began his clerical studies at Princeton. After being graduated he spent two years studying at the theological seminaries at Alexandria, Va., and Camden. S. C.

He had not yet been installed in a church when the civil war broke out, and during the four years' fighting Dr. Elliott served in various capacities, chiefly as chaplain and in hospital work. His first pastoral call was in 1865, after he had emerged from the stirring drama of the civil war. It was to a small church in Engleside, N. J. He stayed there several years, and later was called to Cincinnati. Thirty-five years ago he came to Washington as an assistant to Bishop Pink-ney, at the old Ascension Episcopal Church.

Five years later he was made pastor of the church, and remained the pastor until three

The defendant denied that he desecrated the District sidewalk, and maintained that he was arrested for spite; but Clark found the expectoration expensive, for Judge Mul-lowny charged him $1.

ALUMNI BANQUET.

Princeton Association to Entertain at Rauscher's January 18.

The Princeton Alumni Association of the District of Columbia will hold its annual banquet at Rauscher's January 18, at 8 o'clock p.m. Prof. Roger B. C. Johnson, late of Miami University, now preceptor in philosophy in Princeton University, will be a guest of the association, and will explain in detail the scope and working of the new preceptorial system, which has recently added fifty bright instructors to the educaional force. It is hoped that Capt. Bob hurch, '88, who is to be presented with a nedal of honor by the President this week, will be present.

There will be only three or four addresses during the evening, as the occasion is to be largely a social one.

The Alumni Association has arranged for performance on May 5 at Belasco's Theater by the Triangle Club, under the direc-tion of the Princeton University Dramatic Association. As the play is a new and tak-ing one, considerable interest has been awakened in its production, which is ex-pected to be one of the leading social features of the spring season in Washington

Columbia Chapter Entertained.

Columbia Chapter, D. A. R., held its first and only open meeting of the season in the large parlor of the Ebbitt House last evening. The regent, Mrs. Swormstedt. read a letter from Mrs. Donald McLean, expressing her regret at not being able to accept the invitation from the chapter to be present.

An interesting program followed, consisting of a violin and piano duet by Mr. and Mrs. Smith; an original poem on "The Signers of the Declaration of Independence," by Mr. H. O. Hall, a member of the S. A. R., and the Hungarian rhapsolie, by Miss Yeatman and Mr. Coombs. Miss Bertha F. Wolfe gave a recitation entitled. "An Easter Symbol," which was encored, and she responded with "The Girl Who Loved Him So." The regent introduced Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, the regent of the District, who gave an interesting account of the various D. A. R. meetings she had attended during the day. A plano duet by Mrs. and Miss Keith was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Murray. Mrs. Chenoweth Turner, a chart-er member of the chapter and ex-regent,
